

TRIANGLE INSTITUTE
FOR SECURITY STUDIES (TISS)

ANNUAL REPORT

2022-23

Table of Contents

CONTENTS

02

Message from the Director

05

About TISS

08

Who We Are

14

Highlights from 2022-23

17

Spotlight: New Faces

21

Grants

23

Research

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTORS

We are excited to share some highlights from the 2022-23 academic year with you in this annual report. The past year was filled with many opportunities for TISS to invest in ongoing scholarship being done across our four campuses, to nurture connections among faculty and students, and to build bridges with the policy communities here in North Carolina and in DC.

As part of our commitment to advance interdisciplinary research and collaboration in security studies, TISS hosted a fall conference bringing together historians and political scientists to present new research on the downstream consequences of security partnerships. Invited scholars considered the lessons learned from states' attempts to work with and through partners and proxies as well as the long-term implications for national security, governance, and human security. In keeping with the TISS mission to build bridges among the academic, policymaker, and military communities, the conference included participants from the Joint Special Operations Masters (JSOMA) program at Fort Liberty and a bridging-the-gap session bringing scholars into conversation with security cooperation practitioners from the military.

Fostering the intellectual, educational, and career development of students, with a particular focus on expanding the diversity of security scholars and practitioners, is another key component of our mission. In 2022-23, TISS provided undergraduate and graduate students from our constituent universities several unique experiences including opportunities to visit Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, meet with senior leaders at the Pentagon and CIA in Washington, D.C., and participate in international security wargaming simulations with the Center for Army Analysis. You can read more about each of these activities in the highlights section of this report.

TISS is also committed to building a diverse, interdisciplinary community of scholars in security studies and our annual New Faces conference for advanced graduate students and early-career scholars is a signature initiative for advancing this aim. In this report, you can read about the outstanding PhD candidates and newly-minted PhDs who were selected to participate in our 22nd annual New Faces conference last September, and the exceptional emerging scholars who will join us for the next New Faces conference on September 22, 2023. We hope to see you there!

You can read more about the research, programming, and outreach conducted by TISS faculty affiliates across our constituent institutions. We are also pleased to welcome Nader Uskowi, expert on the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Iranian-led militant Shia movement, and senior advisor to the United States Central Command (CENTCOM), as a visiting fellow.

There have been a few transitions at TISS over this past academic year and looking ahead. In January, TISS Associate Director and Program Coordinator, Dr. Susan Colbourn, became Associate Director of the Program in American Grand Strategy (AGS) at Duke. While we are sad to lose her leadership at TISS, we are grateful for the opportunity this provides for TISS to work even more closely with our AGS partners. We have also been delighted to welcome Monica Harvey into the TISS Program Coordinator role. Monica is a former US Air Force Contracting Officer and IT Project Manager at Booz Allen Hamilton. Her contract management and event planning skills have been a great asset to TISS. She continues to serve in the Air Force Reserves.

Finally, Tricia Sullivan will be stepping away from her formal role as TISS Director to become chair of the Public Policy department at UNC at the end of this calendar year. She will remain active as a member of the Executive Board and the Board will appoint a new director this fall. Fortunately, we have a deep well of talent to draw from!

We are immensely grateful to our financial sponsors and campus partners for their steadfast support. TISS has worked for over half a century to encourage rigorous and objective scholarship in security studies, facilitate meaningful engagement between civilians and the military, and to educate the leaders of the future. With the support of our constituent universities, faculty affiliates, funders, and partners, we look forward to continuing these efforts in the 2023- 2024 academic year.

Dr. Patricia Sullivan
Director, Triangle Institute for Security Studies

Dr. Kyle Beardsley
Deputy Director, Triangle Institute for Security
Studies

ABOUT TISS

The Triangle Institute for Security Studies (TISS) is a cross-campus consortium dedicated to the study of national and international security.

Founded in 1958, TISS is one of the nation's oldest academic centers committed to advancing scholarship and education on security studies, broadly conceived. The consortium is made up of four institutions in North Carolina's Research Triangle region: Duke University, North Carolina Central University, North Carolina State University, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

At TISS, our aim is to enhance understanding of critical issues in national and international security through teaching, high-impact scholarship, and public outreach.

None of this work would be possible without the hard work and support of our faculty affiliates, institutional partners, and generous sponsors.

Our sincere thanks to the Stanton Foundation, the Scaife Foundation, the National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START), Duke University, North Carolina Central University, North Carolina State University, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

OUR MISSION

1

A DIVERSE COMMUNITY

To build and sustain a diverse, interdisciplinary community of scholars in security studies to advance research and collaboration.

2

GROWING THE FIELD

To foster the intellectual, educational, and career development of students and young scholars with a particular focus on expanding the diversity of security studies as a field.

3

BUILDING BRIDGES

To build bridges among the academic, policymaker, and military communities.

4

OUTREACH & ENGAGEMENT

To educate students, policymakers, the military, and the general public on issues of national and international security.

WHO WE ARE

The Triangle Institute for Security Studies has 25 faculty affiliates across our four campuses.

Our affiliates reflect the disciplinary diversity of security studies, coming from the humanities, social sciences, sciences, and beyond. They are pursuing cutting-edge scholarly research and offer informed commentary on the security challenges of today and tomorrow.

Patricia L. Sullivan, Director
Sullivan is Associate Professor in the Department of Public Policy and the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Sullivan's research explores the utility of military force as a policy instrument and the effects of foreign military aid and assistance.

Kyle Beardsley, Deputy Director
Beardsley is Professor of Political Science at Duke University and co-director of the International Crisis Behavior data project. His research focuses on the quantitative study of international conflict and peace processes.

Monica Harvey, Program Coordinator
Harvey is the Program coordinator of the Triangle Institute for Security Studies. She serves in the United States Air Force Reserves and consults in the field of program management and defense-related acquisitions.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

William Boettcher is an Associate Professor of Political Science in the School of Public and International Affairs at North Carolina State University.

Peter Feaver is Professor of Political Science and Public Policy and Director of the Duke Program in American Grand Strategy. He is the past Director of the Triangle Institute and has published widely on grand strategy, US foreign policy, public opinion, nuclear proliferation, civil-military relations, cybersecurity, and more.

Moses Khisa is Associate Professor of Political Science in the School of Public and International Affairs at North Carolina State University. His research and teaching interests include the political economy of development, politics of institutional change, and civil-military relations, among others.

Wayne Lee is the Bruce W. Carney Distinguished Professor in History at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Lee specializes in early modern military history, with a particular focus on North America and the Atlantic World.

Rakesh Malhotra is Associate Professor in the Department of Environmental, Earth, and Geospatial Sciences at North Carolina Central University. Malhotra is a coordinator for the Geospatial Intelligence (GEOINT) Certificate at NCCU.

John Mattingly is Professor of Nuclear Engineering and a University Faculty Scholar at North Carolina State University. Mattingly leads the RADIANS research team.

Jennifer Siegel is the Bruce R. Kuniholm Distinguished Professor of History and Public Policy at the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University. She is a historian of international diplomacy, modern intelligence, finance, the origins of war, and the nature of alliances.

Erinn Whitaker is a Professor of the Practice in the Curriculum of Peace, War and Defense (PWAD) at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is a former senior analyst in the US intelligence community.

FACULTY AFFILIATES

Navin A. Bapat, Dowd Professor of Peace and War and the Chair of the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Dirk Bonker, Associate Professor of History, Duke University

Joseph Caddell, Associate Professor of History at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Susan Colbourn, Associate Director of the American Grand Strategy Consortium, Duke University

Cori E. Dauber, Professor of Communication, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Manna Duah, Assistant Professor of History at North Carolina Central University

Stephen E. Gent, Professor of Political Science and the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Noor Ghazi, Professor in Practice, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Karen Hagemann, James G. Kenan Distinguished Professor of History and the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Connor Huff, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Rice University

Miguel La Serna, Professor of Latin American History, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Klaus Larres, Richard M. Krasno Distinguished Professor of History and International Affairs, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Bahar Leventoglu, Associate Professor of Political Science and Economics, Duke University

FACULTY AFFILIATES

Jessica Liao, Associate Professor of Political Science, North Carolina State University

Austin Matthews, Assistant Professor of Political Science, East Carolina University

Simon Miles, Assistant Professor of Public Policy, Duke University

Michael Cotey Morgan, Associate Professor of History, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Eric Mvukiyehe, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Duke University

Rachel Myrick, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Duke University

Timothy Nichols, Professor of the Practice, Sanford School of Public Policy and Executive Director of the Counterterrorism and Public Policy Fellowship Program, Duke University

Rachel Myrick, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Duke University

Mehdi Shadmehr, Associate Professor of Public Policy, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Michael Struett, Associate Professor and Chair of Political Science, School of Public and International Affairs, North Carolina State University

Erika Weinthal, Professor of Environmental Policy and Public Policy, Duke University

Mara Revkin, Associate Professor, Duke University School of Law

Visiting Fellow

Nader Uskowi

Nader Uskowi is an author, analyst, and subject matter expert on the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Iranian-led militant Shia movement in the Middle East. He currently serves as the senior advisor to the United States Central Command (CENTCOM), whose area of responsibility includes Iran and the Middle East.

Uskowi is the author of Temperature Rising: Iran's Revolutionary Guards and Wars in the Middle East (Rowman & Littlefield, 2019). The book has received exceptional reviews. General James Jones, former national Security Advisor, and former Marine Corps Commandant, says, "Temperature Rising is a riveting account of Iran's way of war in the Middle East by a seasoned observer of the country's regional strategy and military policy. Uskowi's book is a powerful must-read for anyone interested in the region." The Near East Report writes, Temperature Rising takes its place among the few 'must read' publications on contemporary Iran. The book was translated and published in Arabic in 2020 by Riyadh-based International Institute for Iranian Studies (Rasanah).

Uskowi began his professional life as a journalist in Iran. During the height of the Islamic Revolution in 1979, he became the editor-in-chief of Neady-E Azadi, at the time the youngest editor of a major daily newspaper in the country. He has since kept a prolific writing career as a blogger and contributor to the news media. Until late 2015, he edited Uskowi on Iran, a news site on Iranian political and military developments. He also contributed to The Washington Institute from 2017 to 2018 as well as The Atlantic Council from 2018-2022.

Uskowi has testified before the House Counterterrorism and Intelligence Subcommittee on Iran's Revolutionary Guards and its global network.

He holds a BA degree from USC's School of International Relations, where he was a student of Charles McClelland, one of the pioneers of applying General Systems Theory to the study of international system. He also holds an MA degree from the George Washington University, where he undertook research in diagnosing learning disorders in organizations. His paper, "Diagnosing Learning Disorders: A Study of Organizational Learning and Sensemaking," was presented at a seminar for practitioners in the field of organization development in 1996.

He lives with his wife, Patti, in Durham, NC. He has native fluency in Farsi and Dari.

HIGHLIGHTS

Over the 2022-2023 academic year, TISS hosted a range of in-person and virtual programming, much of it in collaboration with our partners and affiliates across the consortium's four campuses.

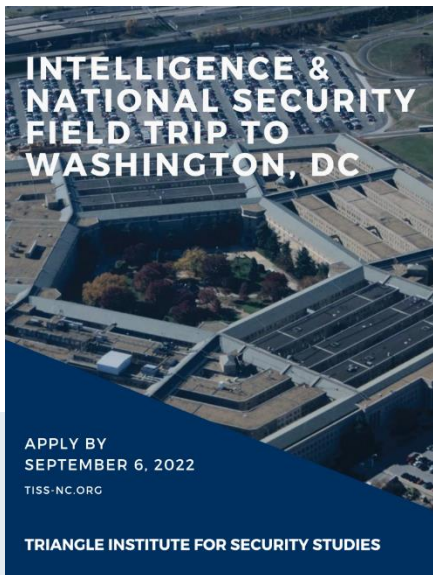

Oak Ridge National Laboratory Visit

On November 16-18, TISS led a field trip to Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. The opportunity provided hands-on demonstrations and presentations for 20 students from Duke, UNC-Chapel Hill, and NC State who have an interest in pursuing careers in nuclear security and nonproliferation.

TISS would like to thank the Stanton Foundation who sponsored this opportunity, as well as the Oak Ridge employees for providing this engaging field trip.

HIGHLIGHTS

Intelligence & Security Field Trip to D.C.

In partnership with Duke's Program for American Grand Strategy, TISS led 22 students (19 undergraduate and 3 graduate) representing Duke, NCCU, UNC Chapel-Hill, and NC State to Washington D.C. The group toured the Pentagon and the Central Intelligence Agency learning about the intelligence community and national security space.

TISS would like to thank Visiting Fellow Andy Vail, the Duke Program in American Grand Strategy, as well as the Pentagon and CIA employees for providing this engaging field trip.

HIGHLIGHTS

Partners, Proxies, and Peer Competition

TISS hosted a fall conference titled “Partners, Proxies, and Peer Competition: The Downstream Consequences of Security Cooperation.” Held at Duke University, the conference brought together experts in international politics with history and political science disciplines.

As states strive to maximize their own security in competition with other states, these states often form relationships with other states, non-state partners and proxies to achieve their security goals. Scholars examined the lessons learned from these relationships, presented their research and engaged in dialogue with other practitioners.

HIGHLIGHTS

HOW DO POLICY MAKERS & MILITARY OFFICIALS STUDY HUMAN BEHAVIOR?

TISS and the Center for Army Analysis held a Wargaming demonstration at North Carolina Central University. Seventeen students from NC State, NCCU, Duke, and UNC-Chapel Hill attended the day-long workshop where they made decisions that simulated real world behavior in strategic situations. While wargames are frequently used to study how actors make decisions during conflict, they can also be used to model human behavior in other scenarios. Policy makers and military officials use wargaming to analyze problems, challenge biases and assumptions, and inform real-world planning for an uncertain future.

The first part of the day focused on the basics of wargaming and how defense and strategy games are used by the military. During the second part of the workshop, students were placed in teams to engage in a crisis simulation designed by the Center for Army Analysis to inform leaders in the Pentagon.

HIGHLIGHTS

As part of the Institute's mission of fostering high-impact research and building an interdisciplinary network of scholars in security studies, TISS regularly hosts works-in-progress groups and research talks to provide members of our community with a chance to present their ongoing research.

China under Zero-Covid and the Start of Xi's Third Term: A Look from Inside

Research Talk co-hosted with the Carolina Asia Center
Dr. Jessica Liao (NC State)

Dr. Liao gave a talk to guests consisting of military, academics, and students, sharing her experiences the past 2.5 years she spent in Beijing as an economic development specialist in the US Embassy in Beijing, covering China's relations with BRI countries. She also shared her observations on PRC's domestic political dynamics from her interactions with PRC contacts and third country diplomats, and her experiences living in zero-COVID China and its political implications.

OTHER EVENTS

Presentation by Gabriela Levy on “Bias in the Evaluation of Violence Against Civilians: Cognitive Dissonance and Moral Disengagement in Colombia” (Chapel-Hill)

September 8, 2022

Intelligence Community Internship & Opportunities Information Session (Duke)

September 14, 2022

Contemporary Issues in the Intelligence Community (Duke)

October 18, 2022

Presentation by Brian Forester on “Patterns of Hierarchy: Arms and Exercises as Coevolving Networks.” (UNC)

November 10, 2022

Book Launch: Euromissiles: The Nuclear Weapons That Nearly Destroyed NATO (Duke)

November 16, 2022

Assistant Secretary of State for Diplomatic Security Gentry Smith (Duke)

February 8, 2023

Luncheon with the Republic of North Macedonia's Ministry of Defense (NC State)

June 5, 2023

SPOTLIGHT: NEW FACES

New Faces is a signature TISS initiative.

Since 2000, the Institute has invited exceptional early-career scholars to the Triangle to present their ongoing research in an engaging and interdisciplinary forum. In September 2022, we were thrilled to bring six exceptional historians and political scientists to the Triangle along with a handful of former New Faces for our twenty-third year.

Fola Aina

"In Pursuit of Strategic Relevance: U.S. Grand Strategy in the Sahel Region"

Aina is an international security analyst and researcher, currently completing a doctorate degree in Leadership Studies, with reference to security and development at King's College London, United Kingdom. His research interests include leadership in national security policy decision making, military operations, international security, and grand strategy, with a regional focus on the Sahel and Lake Chad Basin.

Fola is currently a non-residential fellow with RUSI, United Kingdom and a non-residential fellow with the Joint Special Operations University (JSOU), U.S.A..

Daniel Chardell

"The Gulf Between Their Wars: Illusory American and Arab Visions of Post-Cold War Middle Eastern Order, 1989-1991"

Daniel Chardell is a historian of U.S. foreign policy, the Middle East, the Cold War, and world order. He is currently completing his PhD in the Department of History at Harvard University. Drawing on more than a dozen American, Middle Eastern, British, and United Nations archival collections and a range of Arabic-language materials, his dissertation uses the Gulf War of 1991 as a lens through which to explore contending American and Arab visions of international order in the post-Cold War era. Since 2021, he has been a predoctoral fellow at the Kissinger Center for Global Affairs at Johns Hopkins SAIS alongside his doctoral studies.

Michael Goldfien

"Hawks, Doves, and Regime Type in International Rivalry and Rapprochement"

Goldfien received his Ph.D. in political science at Yale University. His research focuses on leaders and the domestic politics of diplomacy and international security. He holds an M.A. in International Policy from Stanford University and a B.A. in International Relations from Grinnell College.

In July 2023, Goldfien joined the faculty at the U.S. Naval War College as an assistant professor.

Soyoung Lee

"Valuable to Any and None: Domestic Distributional Consequences and Constraints to Conflict Escalation"

A Ph.D. Candidate in Political Science at Stanford University, Lee studies International Relations with a focus on why states and their citizens are willing to engage in costly conflict over some international issues but not others. Her research combines survey experiments, geospatial analysis of territorial claims, qualitative case studies, and text analysis of political rhetoric.

In July 2024, Lee will join the faculty at Yale University as an Assistant Professor of Political Science.

J. Luis Rodriguez

"Nuclear Order Preferences and the Making of the Nuclear Club"

Rodriguez is a Postdoctoral Fellow at Stanford University's Center for International Security and Cooperation (CISAC). His work focuses on how the Global South navigates inequalities in international orders and attempts to level the playing field in global governance. My research centers on international security, with a focus on the approaches of the Global South during the negotiations of nuclear, humanitarian, and cyber governance.

Laura Resnick Samotin

"Secrecy and Oversight: US Law and the Domestic Politics of Covert Action"

Samotin earned her PhD in political science at Columbia University, where her research focused on the non-material determinants of military effectiveness.

Samotin now serves as the chief of staff to the dean of Columbia University's School of International and Public Policy (SIPA). She also serves as SIPA's Director of Strategic Partnerships and an adjunct assistant professor of political science at Columbia University. She is a non-resident senior fellow with the Atlantic Council's Scowcroft Center and a non-resident senior fellow at the Schwarzenegger Institute at the University of Southern California.

NEW FACES NEWS

Now in its twenty-third year, New Faces has an incredible network of hundreds of former participants at leading research universities, think tanks, and in government service. We are thrilled that a few have come back to work in the TISS community – including our director, Tricia Sullivan!

Michael Kenwick (NF 2016)

Named 2023-24 Lightning Scholar for his efforts leading the Borders and Boundaries Project, a multidisciplinary initiative exploring the causes and consequences of intensified border control efforts.

Daniel Krcmaric (NF 2014)

Earned tenure at Northwestern University's Department of Political Science .

Peter Krause (NF 2010)

Received fellowship at the Crown Center for Middle East Studies and Brandeis University

S. Mike Pavelec (NF 2002)

Named the Director of the Schriever Space Scholars Program for the United States Space Force.

NEW FACES 2023

We are looking forward to welcoming six fantastic scholars to the Triangle this October for our 23rd annual New Faces conference!

Nathan Grau is a Ph.D. candidate in history and policy at Harvard University.

Lamin Keita is a Ph.D. Candidate in Political Science at Northwestern University.

Emily Myers is a Ph.D. candidate in Political Science at Duke University.

Leyla Tiglay is a Ph.D. candidate in History at Ohio State University.

Meghan Vance is a Ph.D. candidate in History at Texas A&M University.

Andi Zhou is a Ph.D. candidate in Political Science at Harvard University.

New Faces 2023 is possible thanks to the generosity of the Scaife Foundation. We are grateful for their continued support of this program.

GRANTS

As part of our efforts to advance research in the security studies space, we regularly pursue new funding opportunities to facilitate collaborative research within the TISS community.

International Crisis Behavior: Escalation, Alliance Formation, and Policy Choices

Having secured funding in 2022, Tricia Sullivan and Kyle Beardsley continue to research for collaborative project on the downstream consequences of security assistance. The funding comes from the Department of Defense, via the National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Response to Terrorism (START) at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Teams led by Sullivan and Beardsley will focus on three central tasks: (1) the updating of the International Crisis Behavior (ICB) data and integration with the Global Terrorism Database (GTD); (2) a targeted data collection of disaggregated security assistance (SA); and (3) an analysis of how security force assistance networks, interstate crises, and terrorism coevolve.

This project will contribute to debates among scholars and practitioners regarding the prudent and ethical use of security assistance as a tool of national security, alliance maintenance, and great-power competition.

GRANTS

Stanton Foundation

The Stanton Foundation providing funding for visit to Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Over the two-day period, students from NC State, Duke, UNC-Chapel Hill, and NCCU visited the laboratory where they learned about career opportunities, took part in hands-on demonstrations, and toured the lab and attended lectures.

Sarah Scaife Foundation

The Sarah Scaife Foundation provided funding for this year's New Faces Conference. The conference invites current Ph.D. students and newly-minted Ph.D.'s in fields related to national security to present their research, gain feedback, and collaborate with other academics and practitioners in preparation for entering the academic job market.

RESEARCH

As part of our mission to support cutting-edge research in security studies, TISS provided grants to faculty affiliates to help them pursue research and disseminate their findings to the broadest possible audience.

Mara Revkin was awarded funds to support research on the topic “Advancing Peace Through Inclusive Governance and Reintegration: Evidence from Iraq.”

Susan Colbourn conducted research in the papers of the French foreign ministry held at the Archives diplomatiques in La Courneuve, France. Colbourn consulted an array of records on French foreign policy during the Cold War focused on French thinking about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) as part of a new book project.

Mark Nance received support to assist in NC State's MIS internship program with the North Macedonian Ministry of Defence.

Books & Edited Volumes

Colbourn, Susan. Euromissiles: The Nuclear Weapons That Nearly Destroyed NATO. Cornell University Press, 2022.

Feaver, Peter D. Thanks for Your Service: The Causes and Consequences of Public Confidence in the US Military. Oxford University Press, 2023.

Feaver, Peter. Hand-Off: The Foreign Policy George W. Bush Passed to Barack Obama. Brookings Institution Press, 2023. Co-edited with Stephen Hadley, William Inboden, and Meghan O'Sullivan.

Brands, Hal, Peter D. Feaver, and William Inboden. "Stress Testing American Grand Strategy II: Critical Assumptions and Great-Power Rivalry." (2023).

Larres, Klaus, Holger Moroff, and Ruth Wittlinger, eds. The Oxford Handbook of German Politics. Oxford University Press, 2022.

Larres, Klaus. Uncertain Allies: Nixon, Kissinger, and the Threat of a United Europe. Yale University Press, 2022.

Larres, Klaus. Dictators and Autocrats: Securing Power Across Global Politics. Taylor & Francis, 2022.

Larres, Klaus, and Tobias Hof, eds. Terrorism and Transatlantic Relations: Threats and Challenges. Springer Nature, 2021.

White, Samuel C. Duckett, ed. The Laws of Yesterday's Wars 2: From Ancient India to East Africa. BRILL, 2022.

Lee, Wayne E. "To Stop a Cannonball: Ottoman Fortress Design and Comparing Military Revolutions, 1350–1730." The Military Revolution and Revolutions in Military Affairs 3 (2022): 113.

Brands, Hal, ed. The New Makers of Modern Strategy: From the Ancient World to the Digital Age. Princeton University Press, 2023.

Edozie, Rita Kiki, and Moses Khisa. "Africa's New Global Politics." Africa's New Global Politics. Lynne Rienner Publishers, 2022.

Jeannie Sowers, Stacy Vandever, and Erika Weinthal, eds. 2023. The Oxford Handbook on Comparative Environmental Politics (Oxford University Press).

Ángela María Amaya Arias, Kristine Perry, and Erika Weinthal. "Gobernanza ambiental para la Paz en Colombia." Universidad Externado de Colombia, 2022

Swain, Ashok, et al. "Environment and security in the 21st century." Environment and Security (2023): 27538796221149609

Journal Articles

Feaver, Peter and William Inboden. "What the Freedom Agenda Can Still Teach Us," Journal of Democracy, May 2023

Feaver, Peter. "The Future of Democracy: National Security Begins at Home," Democracy: A Journal of Ideas, No. 62 Special Issue (2022)

Khisa, Moses. "Rethinking the Pan-African Agenda: Africa, the African Diaspora and the Agenda for Liberation," Africa Development, Vol XLVII, No.4 2022, pp.1-23.

Khisa, Moses and Sabastiano Rwengabo. "Militarism and the Politics of Covid-19 Response in Uganda," Armed Forces Society, Online First, April 2023.

Khisa, Moses and Sabastiano Rwengabo. "The Deepening Politics of Fragmentation in Uganda: Understanding Violence in the Rwenzori Region," African Studies Review 65, No 4 (Dec 2022): 939-964."

Larres Klaus. "Drawing Up Germany's First National Security Strategy: A Challenging and Contentious Task," consultation paper, Fortune Society, University of Macau, April 1, 2023.

Myrick, Rachel and Chen Wang. "Domestic Polarization and International Rivalry: How Adversaries Respond to America's Partisan Politics." Forthcoming at Journal of Politics.

Myrick, Rachel. "Public Reactions to Secrecy in International Negotiations." Forthcoming at Journal of Conflict Resolution.

Myrick, Rachel. "The Reputational Consequences of Polarization for American Foreign Policy." International Politics 59: 10004-1027 (2022).

Myrick, Rachel and Jeremy Weinstein. "Making Sense of Human Rights Diplomacy: Evidence from a US Campaign to Free Political Prisoners." International Organization 76(2): 379-413 (2022).

Jee, Haemin, Hans Lueders, and Rachel Myrick. "Towards a Unified Approach to Research on Democratic Backsliding." Democratization 29(4): 754-767 (2022).

Kao, Kristen and Mara Revkin, "Retribution or Reconciliation? Post-Conflict Attitudes Toward Enemy Collaborators." 67 THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE 358-373 (2023)
<https://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/10.1111/ajps.12673>

Sullivan, Patricia. "Lethal Aid and Human Security: The effects of U.S. security assistance on civilian harm." Conflict Management and Peace Science (2023). <https://doi.org/10.1177/07388942231155161>

Sullivan, Patricia. "Do No Harm: US Aid to Africa and Civilian Security." Political Violence at a Glance, May 8, 2023.
<https://politicalviolenceataglance.org/2023/05/08/do-no-harm-us-aid-to-africa-and-civilian-security/>

Lee, Wayne. "The Logistics of Grass: How Steppe Nomads Invented the Operational Level of War." MHQ: The Quarterly Journal of Military History, vol 34, no. 3, 2022, pp. 44-53.

Bruch, Carl and Erika Weinthal. "Protecting Nuclear Power Plants during War: Implications from Ukraine." Environmental Law Reporter, vol. 53, no. 4, 2023, pp. 10285-10297.

Daoudy, Marwa, Jeannie Sowers, and Erika Weinthal. "What is Climate Security? Framing Risks around Water, Food and Migration in the Middle East and North Africa." WIREs Water. 2022.

Ledebur, Kathryn and Erika Weinthal. "Can South American Lithium Power Biden's Battery Plans?" Foreign Policy. April 12, 2023.
<https://foreignpolicy.com/2023/04/12/us-energy-transition-lithium-triangle-evs-batteries-latin-america-policy/>

Patel, Ekta and Erika Weinthal. "USAID's Revised Water and Conflict Toolkit." New Security Beat, March 22 2023.
<https://www.newsecuritybeat.org/2023/03/usaid-revised-water-conflict-toolkit/>

Bareebe, Gerald and Moses Khisa. "Rwanda-Uganda Relations: Elites' Attitudes and Perceptions in Interstate Relations." Commonwealth & Comparative Politics, Online First, March, 2023.

Miles, Simon. "'In Control Here': Alexander Haig, Ronald Reagan, and US-Soviet Relations." Texas National Security Review policy roundtable, "Reconsidering Alexander Haig." 21 July, 2022.

<https://tnsr.org/roundtable/policy-roundtable-reconsidering-alexander-haig/#essay4>.

Matthews, Austin. "The Politburos of Communist Eastern Europe: Introducing New Individual-Level Data on Candidate and Full Members." Communist and Post-Communist Studies, vol 56, no 2, 2023, pp.159-176.

Matthews, Austin. "If You'll be my Bodyguard: Presidential Guard Units and Leader Capture during Coups d'état." Armed Forces & Society (Forthcoming)

Matthews, Austin. "To Purge or not to Purge? An Individual-Level Quantitative Analysis of Elite Purges in Dictatorships" (with Edward Goldring). British Journal of Political Science vol. 53, no 2, 2023, pp. 575-593.

Matthews, Austin. "Identifying Patterns in the Structural Drivers of Intrastate Conflict" (with Jonathan D. Moyer, Yutang Xiong, and Mickey Rafa). British Journal of Political Science, vol. 53, no. 2, 2023, pp. 749-756.

Matthews, Austin. "Measuring and Forecasting the Rise of China" (with Jonathan D. Moyer and Collin J. Meisel). Journal of Contemporary China. vol 32, no. 140, pp. 191-206.

Matthews, Austin. "Don't Turn Around, Der Kommissar's in Town: Political Officers and Coups d'État in Authoritarian Regimes." Journal of Peace Research. Vol. 59, no. 5, pp. 663-678

Book Chapters

Colbourn, Susan. "Donald Trump and the Terrible, Horrible, No-Good, Very Bad Deal," in The Liberal Order Strikes Back? Donald Trump, Joe Biden, and the Future of International Politics, ed. Robert Jervis, Diane Labrosse, Stacie Goddard, and Joshua Rovner (Columbia University Press, 2023), 161-67.

Colbourn, Susan. "The Twists and Shouts of Pierre Elliott Trudeau," in Statesmen, Strategists, and Diplomats: Canada's Prime Ministers and the Making of Foreign Policy, ed. Patrice Dutil (UBC Press, 2023), 239-60.

Feaver, Peter. "The Fulcrum of Fragility: Command and Control in Regional Nuclear Powers," in Vipin Narang and Scott D. Sagan, eds., The Fragile Balance of Terror: Deterrence in the New Nuclear Age, Cornell University Press, 2022. Co-authored with Giles David Arceneaux.

Khisa, Moses. "Militarism and the Dilemmas of Decolonising Knowledge in Uganda." In Decolonising State and Society in Uganda: The Politics of Knowledge and Public Life, edited by Katherine Bruce-Lockhart, Jonathon L. Earle, Nakanyike B. Musisi and Edgar C. Taylor, 123-145. London: James Currey, 2022.

Siegel, Jennifer. "Planning for International Financial Order: The Call for Collective Responsibility at the Paris Peace Conference." In Peter Jackson, William Mulligan, and Glenda Sluga eds. Peacemaking and International Order after the Great War, Cambridge University Press, 2023.

Opinion & Commentary

Colbourn, Susan. "How Russia Came to Occupy the Soviet Seat on the Security Council," International Law News 50, no. 2 (2023): 14-16.

Colbourn, Susan. "Arms Control and Deterrence: The Euromissiles, Then and Now," Hague Center for Strategic Studies report, March 6, 2023.

Colbourn, Susan. "The Kremlin Saves NATO (Again)," Cornell Press, February 17, 2023.

Colbourn, Susan, Simon Miles and Timothy Andrews Sayle. "Canada's Leaders Know The Value of Applied History. So Why Won't They Set It Free?," The Globe & Mail, February 14, 2023.

Colbourn, Susan. "The Imbalance of Terror: Reflections on Nuclear Deterrence from the 1980s," Engelsberg Ideas, November 18, 2022.

Feaver, Peter. "The Strange Case of Iraq Syndrome: How Elites Misread Public Perceptions of the War," ForeignAffairs.com, 15 March 2023. Accessible here: <https://www.foreignaffairs.com/united-states/iraq-war-vietnam-syndrome-leaders> Co-authored with Christopher Gelpi and Jason Reifler.

Feaver, Peter. "Let's Stop Being Cavalier About Civilian Control of the Military. Lawfare, 13 September 2022. <https://www.lawfareblog.com/lets-stop-being-cavalier-about-civilian-control-military> Co-authored with Michele Flournoy.

Honors & Awards

Colbourn, Susan. Finalist for the 2023 Center for Presidential History Book Prize for her book titles "Euromissiles: The Nuclear Weapons that Nearly Destroyed NATO."

Myrick, Rachel. 2022 Merze Tate Dissertation Award from the American Political Science Association for best dissertation in international relations, law, and politics

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Our activities would not be possible without the following partners:

College of Arts and Sciences, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
College of Engineering, North Carolina State University
College of Humanities and Social Sciences, North Carolina State University
Department of Nuclear Engineering, North Carolina State University
Provost's Office, Duke University
Provost's Office, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
Scaife Foundation
School of Public and International Affairs, North Carolina State University
The Stanton Foundation
Sanford School of Public Policy, Duke University
Trinity College of Arts and Sciences, Duke University
Duke Program for American Grand Strategy

We thank you for your continued generous and dedicated support.

CONTACT

Triangle Institute for Security Studies

132 Rubenstein Hall
Box 90306
302 Towerview Drive
Durham, NC 27708

tiss-nc.org
@TISSnews

317-903-0166